

“THE FORGETFUL ELF”

Oh, Tommy the elf sure was a jolly guy,
In Santa’s workshop toys he made were piled up high.
But he’d forget the hammers and he’d misplace the glue,
And once he wrapped a rocking horse inside a tiny shoe!

Oh, Tommy, silly Tommy, what now did you forget?
You packed a doll with cookies and a train set with a pet!
But, Santa loves you dearly, mistakes and all the same,
For Christmas time is brighter when we laugh and play your game.

One time he made a robot with candy canes for feet,
Another time a teddy bear who loved to dance a beat.
The other elves all giggled, “Oh Tommy, mercy me!”
But children loved those presents, they were full of Christmas glee.

Oh, Tommy, silly Tommy, what now did you forget?
You sent a kite to penguins, and bongos to the vet!
But, Santa loves you dearly, mistakes and all the same,
For Christmas time is brighter when we laugh and play your game.

And when the sleigh is ready, with toys all packed away,
Santa winks at Tommy as he smiles and says, “Hooray!”
No, Tommy isn’t perfect, he sleeps upon a shelf,
But everyone still loves him so, that dizzy, daffy elf!

Oh, Tommy, silly Tommy, we love the things you do,
Our Christmas world is brighter now just because of you!
So, if your toys are silly, it’s part of all the fun.
Merry Christmas, Tommy, you’re Santa’s favorite one!
